GO AFTER THE CORN TROPHY.

There should be a lot of enthusiasm put into the Josephine county corn growing contest this season. A good many people have thought that when you crossed the Rocky mountains the corn belt was left behind. But experimentation has proved the fallacy of this, and by consistent proving the west a "corn country." following casualty list: The Josephine county fair board has provided a beautiful trophy that is Private Oliver Bombshee. fair. The fact that a man is seeking the nomination does not by any means say that he is either qualified or worthy . The voter can best judge of what a man may do as a public official by what he has done as a private citizen, by his record for probity and for enterprise and for business ability, and not by his verbosity or his ability as a streetcorner peddler of hot-air. If he has held public office, his record is an open book, and he should stand upon it. Too many men seek office because they have failed at everything else. They are looking for a meal ticket. The job-hunting politician is a good fellow to steer clear of. There is only a short time now till the voter will cast his ballot in the making of Washington, April 26.—Senator Kern, democratic leader of the senate, predicts that congress, far from being able to adjourn before the June convention, will scarcely be through by September. He declares there is no intention among democratic leaders to abandon any legislation.

All major matters will be fought through to a finish, he said. This program is contradictory to one which has generally been understood to be favored by the president.

The legislation which will take a great deal of time, it is expected, includes: We Sell and Guarantee

Prolonged fights, perhaps filibusters, are practical certainties in the ship purchase and child labor bills. Rural credits will be the next legislation to be considered by the senate. A large amount of conservation legislation, including bills for water power, mining and grazing lands still in public domain, will also be considered, but probably not enacted into law because of differences between the two houses.
